RIOTOUS SCENES IN CLAYTON; NEWSPAPER MEN ASSAULTED.

dered J. T. Appler of Clayton to act as temporary chairman and J. C. A. Hiller of Grover as temporary secretary.

PANDEMONIUM BROKE LOOSE. At that moment pandemonium broke loose. Friends of Hawes broke into the room and overturned chairs, tables and all of the furniture. Uncontested delegates were grabbed and pushed out of the door. Jesse Joplin, a husky man, despite his 69 years, kept five men busy putting him into the hall. He came from Meramed Township, whose delegation was afterwards "seated" by the Hawes crowd. All of the contested delegates were unceremoniously thrown out, the greater number not risking violence by much resistance.

Judge Wurdeman's courtroom was treated with scant respect. The railing surrounding his bench was broken down. The glass doors of the bookcases were broken so completely that the floor was strewn with broken glass. Chairs and tables were damaged by the inrushing crowd of struggling men.

The noise was so terrific that Judge McElhinney, who was hearing the Barrington trial in the room immediately above that in which the disturbance occurred, was forced to adjourn his court.

ROUT OF REGULARS.

It was a complete rout of the regular delegates. Amidst the confusion, while J. J. Gillick was trying to read a protest against the action of the committee, Judge William H. Biggs of Kirkwood moved that, "owing to the fact that outsiders have gained possession of this room by force and in order to prevent bloodshed," a recess be taken until 11 a. m. in Kirkwood Saturday. This was carried by the friends of Folk just as they were being pushed out of the room.

This done, Thomas M. Jenkins moved that Claude B. Martin be made temporary chairman of the convention and that Lee Barton be temporary secretary. The motion was declared carried by Gillick and the Hawes meeting progressed without interruption Committees on Credentials, Organization and Resolutions were appointed in double-quick time, as follows: Credentials, W. H. Stafford, John Pipkin and H. B. Albers; Organization, B. C. Edmunds, Henry Rautenbusch, Gus Gauss; Resolutions, Fred Reid, William Ochler and R. A. Pipkin.

A two minutes' recess was then taken while the committee read their reports. The temporary organization was made permanent, the Hawes delegates from Central, St. Ferdinand and Carondelet townships and the Folk uncontested delegates, who had been thrown out of the room, were seated. Resolutions were then adopted indorsing Hawes for Governor and condemning the actions of the friends of Folk. The resolutions were, in part as follows:

ST. LOUIS COUNTY FOLK SUPPORTERS.

J. McDermott, James Harrison, S. Belk, munds and Joseph Buscher.

The list of delegates was read from prepared notes and included representation from all of the townships. Fred Turner of Meramec, who was not a county dele gate, but who claimed to hold a proxy, was made a delegate to the State Convention. He is an anti-Folk man.

After the selection of the delegates, the Hawes convention adjourned and the majority of the attendants went over to the saloon where they had come from. Thomas M. Jenkins, John Dolan, Lee Barton Fred Reid, Claude Martin, John J. Lavin and others held a close conference in a back room of the saloon. Barton, the secretary of the convention, would not give out the proceedings until he had consulted with Jenkins.

Congressman Vandivene said that he had given money to Judge Biggs, with which to employ twenty Deputy Sheriffs to maintain order in Clayton.

"Judge Biggs tells me that when he ap proached Sheriff Hencken in regard to the matter the latter told him that he was not going to take any side in the political troubles."

INDIGNATION EXPRESSED. Indignation over the high-handed proceedings of the day was generally expressed in Clayton. Doctor J. Marshall Berry was standing in Sudduth's drug store when Mr. Coult was attacked by the band of Indians and saw one of them draw a gun and then put it back into his pocket when a cooler member of the mob spoke to him.

D. C. Taylor, an old and respected citizen of the county, was bruised and beaten by the crowd that broke into the Probate Court room. He was knocked down and trampled under foot and then dragged and pushed out of the room. He had been named temporary chairman of the con-vention. Condemnation of the ruffianly acts of the invaders from the city was heard on every side. After the assault Photographer Coult went before Justice of the Peace J. B. Greensfelder and swore out a general fought the battles of his party. He has voted warrant against his assailant. Every effort to locate the aggressors failed, as they disappeared. Later in the day one of them, it is said, surrounded by a gang of his friends, caught a car to town on the edge of Clayton.

Congressman W. D. Vandiver was an interested onlooker at the proceedings. He told his friends that he had heard there might be trouble over the convention but that he had never thought it could reach the height it assumed. J. C. A. Hiller, secretary of the County Committee, was indignant, as were all of the farmers who attended the meeting. Charles A. Cunningham of Florissant

Township, a Folk delegate and a wellknown business man, recognized in one of the ringleaders of the Indians the same man who had taken the gang out to the Florissant mass meeting last Saturday. IDENTIFIED "RINGERS"

"Last Saturday I went out on the Wabash on the same train with a crowd of eighteen men who boarded the train at the foot of Olive street," he said. "I found out that they were going to Florissant and deliberately examined them. They laughed sheepishly when I looked at them. Nine of them had derbies and nine fedoras. They were here to-day. The leader is a rather tall man, well built, wears a light overcoat, a soft black hat, has gray eyes and a front gold tooth."

Mr. Cunningham produced a list of twenty-two names which had been given to him by a negro named J. B. Williams last Saturday. "Williams formerly worked for me," said Mr. Cunningham, "and feels under some obligations to me. Evidently under the impression that I was a Hawes man, he told me that if I saw Mr. Hawes to show him the list, with the statement that he had kept his part of the agree ment. Williams told me that the negroes were all Republicans, whom he had organized into his fake good-government

AT MERCY OF RUFFIANS.

"And so it was that peaceable, law-abiding citizens were at the mercy of a gang of ruffians, mostly imported from this city. Some idea of their character may be had from the fact that one of their squads was led by John P. Dolan, now under sentence of five years in the Penitentiary for election frauds. This seems to be the class of men specially prominent among the Butler-Hawes 'Indians.'

"Talk about regularity! Talk about party organization! These ruffians had no more respect for it than a Comanche Indian has for the decalogue."

"The temporary chairman appointed by the regular organization was not allowed to get to the chair before he was knocked down and dragged out. Mr. Yout talks about photographs, but as soon as a camera was brought to bear on the 'Indian' squads, they seemed to think that here after their faces might be recognized, made a break for the man with the camera, knocked him down and smashed his camera into splinters. It was the most disgraceful proceeding that I have ever "The regular convention will be held

"The convention proceeded in the regular manner by the appointment of a Committee on Credentials, Organization and Resolution. "The Folk people first met in the Court-

NEWTON CONVENTION IN A DEADLOCK.

Forty-Three Ballots Taken Without a Choice for Congressman in the Twenty-Third District.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Newton, III., March 1.-The Democratic Congressional Convention for the Twentythird District, which assembled at the opera-house in this city to-day with James Dickinson of Lawrenceville chair-man, is in a deadlock. After forty-three ballots without a nomination the convention adjourned until to-morrow morning

The balloting was desultory and changed about so rapidly as to be without much significance. The highest votes were: Doctor M. D. Foster, 59; M. B. Wells, 34; E. B. Spurgeon. 34; George M. Lecrone, 22; Thomas E. Ford, 30, and A. L. Maxwell, 29. There are 134 delegates and it requires sixty-eight to make a nomination.

with each other. McElvain John, Herbert and Edward Mitchell and Frank Joyner are dwelling together in political unity. This is a bad sign for the party. It siways gets a licking when it is unanimously harmonious in this county. Colonel Bill Slack Postmaster of Carbondale, and Jim White. Postmaster of Carbondale, and Jim White. Postmaster of Murphysbord, are responsible for this condition. Of course they had an ax to grind themselves. They learned that Judge Robert McElvain, the Warwick of the county, was making faces at his former comrade. Governor Yates, and the latter discharged McElvain's brother. Corydon, from his place at the Chester Prison. A deal was arranged by which McElvain goes to the State Senate—if he beats the Democrat. Smith has smooth sailing for a return to Congress and a delegation to the State Convention is chosen by the Congressman which is presumed to include all factions in the county. This does not mean that the delegation will be distributed among all the candidates for Governor. That is the care of the Postmasters. It will be "fixed for business." That is to say, it expects to join the winning combination, and it does not matter which one it is. There is a broad suspicion current that Colonel Lowden will be the beneficiary in all the counties named.

This is why Governor Yates's managers are seeking an opening for county conventions to undo the work of Postmasters. Resolutions were adopted commending the course of Joseph B. Crowley in Congress, and the Democratic members of the Illinois General Assembly, and indorsing the candidacy of Albert Watson of Mount Vernon for Attorney General, The State administration was severely condemned for its extravagance and the increasing salaries for the purpose of as-sessing officeholders for campaign funds. No presidential preferences were ex-pressed.
